Award Winning Program Promotes Promises Renewed

Menorah Park is proud to have received the Jewish Programming Award from the Association of Jewish Aging Services in recognition of our “I Do, Again...A Dream Come True” vow renewal ceremony, due to the program’s depth and qualities of innovation and creativity.

Thirteen couples from the R.H. Myers Apartments here on campus met bi-weekly for three months with Spiritual Living Department Associate Rabbi Howard Kutner. Volunteers and staff interviewed and photographed couples, helped compile their stories and provided a special surprise: letters of congratulations from President Barack Obama

Flying Macaroni and Age Old Shtick Make for an Exciting Throw-Down

Bob Agrast, Food Services Director at Menorah Park, and Noah Budin, Stone Gardens Assistant Activities Coordinator, tossed jokes as ‘shtick’ as cheese sauce to an auditorium full of onlookers and mac and cheese connoisseurs from across campus, and judges for the tasty Macaroni Throw-Down last month. On stage were three chefs from campus buildings who gathered their secret ingredients and engaged in culinary magic in hopes of taking home the coveted Throw-Down trophy.

Chefs Matthew Bauman of Stone Gardens, Tina Chavers from Wiggins Place, and Tom Steinmetz from The R.H. Myers Apartments kitchens all worked diligently to make their favorite mac and cheese recipes while the clock wound

All Things Considered at Stone Gardens

Ross Wilkoff, Stone Gardens Administrator

At Stone Gardens Assisted Living and throughout the Menorah Park Campus, we embrace the mantra of engagement. There's always opportunity and it's never too late for anyone to live an active, stimulating and community-centered life. As the saying goes, life is what you make of it. And there is so much to do and discuss here.

News in Israel, the unrest in Middle Eastern countries, the impact of technology on learning, avatars, a drinking fountain, resident ambassadors, a resident late night club, neighborhood dining, Menorah Café, and Pearl's Place are some of the recent topics of conversation at Stone Gardens among the residents and me during our spin on the NPR radio program "All Things Considered." It includes a similar blend of news, analysis and commentary conceived as an opportunity for us as a group to talk about topics of mutual interest and a chance to get to know each other as a community. No topic is off limits. Current events are debated, TV shows are critiqued, suggestions are made for improvements at Stone Gardens, and education is provided about current services offered on the campus.

Knowing what is available on campus supports residents' abilities to expand their horizons or simply take advantage of programs that make life easier and more enjoyable. Since there are so many different programs and services offered, communication is important to ensure awareness of all of the wonderful opportunities and options.

One example is our lifelong learning option, Distance Learning, which recently received an award of Excellence in Service by our state association, LeadingAge Ohio. At Stone Gardens, we have engaged in the program twice a week for nearly four years. Residents and their invited guests participate in stimulating face-to-face intellectual classes, engaging in virtual classrooms without leaving their community through this internet-based program where a live presenter interacts with residents during a discussion about a certain topic. Imagine the Amazon coming to YOUR living room and the dialogue that would occur, in real time!

Attendance is very good at these programs with between 30-45 people routinely participating. Yet, when talked about in the "All Things Considered" group, there were several people who did not realize what the programs were, but are now regular attendees. Some have also joined friends at the other residences during those scheduled distance learning programs.

So come by on Wednesday afternoons at 4:00 p.m. to discuss what is being considered. Join Lillian Friedlander who likes to hear what is going on, Natalie Becker who discovers the latest plans, and Rose Gelb who summed it up nicely, "I like to see our ideas implemented for the betterment of everyone."

Shabbat for the Tots Means a Lot to the Community

Join Noah Budin at the Stone Gardens Assisted Living Residence on the last Friday of every month, at 11:00 a.m. in the Ivy Room (activities room) for an intergenerational Tot Shabbat.

Tot Shabbat is a fun, interactive, musical, family celebration of the Jewish joys and customs geared for children ages infant to five years old. Moms, dads, older siblings, caregivers, grandparents, great-grandparents and Stone Gardens residents enjoy singing songs, clapping, and learning the hand motions and body movements in this participatory sing-a-long. Adults must accompany children to this event and remain with them for the duration (about 45 minutes). No prior knowledge of Shabbat or the songs is necessary as Noah will lead and guide everyone easily through his popular and highly acclaimed Tot Shabbat session.

Space is limited, so make reservations early by calling (216) 292-0070.

Bagel Brunch

Because of Passover, there will be no bagel brunch in April. Pancake breakfast will be as scheduled on Sunday, April 10th.

New from the Adaptive Living Shoppe: Stove Guard

Do you know someone who has left a pot on the burner too long? Sometimes it is easy to be distracted by life's other activities.

Careless Cooking

Kitchen fires are the most common of household fires. Smoke damage alone can cost thousands of dollars to repair.

Tragically, cooking fires are all too common, with our senior population being the most at risk.

There's a solution...a watchdog for your stove

- Fire Marshals have tested Stove Guard and endorse its use as an effective stove fire prevention tool. It is recommended for use in every home.
- Occupational Therapists & Home Care Workers across North America praise Stove Guard's effectiveness.
- Stove Guard is the solution they use to help their "Aging at Home" clients live independently, remaining in their homes longer, more safely.
- Seniors' Housing Managers use Stove Guard to provide an extra level of security and safety for their residents.

and First Lady Michelle Obama, and a video posted to YouTube with photos from the couples' early years and recent photos.

It's not only the cumulative years of marriage or the number of couples that made the vow renewals special. It's the beauty found in each of their lives, stories that unfold to reveal a wonderful past of memories, and a present filled with beautiful lives and families who love and need them.

This acknowledgment of their vitality helps encourage them to remain active and involved feeling enriched with each experience.

In a world where divorce statistics outweigh the hope of a lasting marriage, Rabbi Kutner sparked an ongoing trend of vow renewal in the elderly and the married children connected with the Menorah Park Campus.

From Russia to America The Story of David G

By Volunteer Helene Weinberger

Menorah Park Campus serves more than 1000 clients and residents combined. Each person has a rich history of moments lived with memories to share. Author and Wiggins Place resident David Genshaft put his life and experiences into a book titled "David G, The Story of Me." David was born in Vitebsk, Russia at a time when Russian Jews had every reason to be afraid of pogroms, and of being conscripted into the army. In 1916 his father, Nathan, was ordered to report for duty; with the sound advice of the local rabbi, he fled to America. David, his mother, and his brother did not see his father again until 1923, when they arrived at Ellis Island. They moved to Canton, Ohio, where the family knew a "landsman," and his father's skill as a kosher butcher enabled him to find a job.

The family settled into a Jewish neighborhood and became a part of the community. It is the "flavor" of this book and its detailed memories of places such as stores, houses, synagogues, hospitals, department stores, and so much that has now disappeared with the era, that make it memorable! David's picturesque descriptions of the hardships of the depression, the interruption of his education due to his father's death, his World War II foreign service in Iraq, his travels to Baghdad, and his marriage to Anne Klein and their ensuing family, help readers feel as if they were there. David seems to recall every moment from theatres to a Bar Mitzvah; and particularly his involvement with the meat business, which became his lifetime gainful career. He acquired partial ownership of the company he worked for, Superior Packing Co., and after several difficult growth periods the firm bought Sugardale Meats. When David retired, he sold his shares of the company.

Photos in the book illustrate this family's saga, which is now a part of America's history, as well as the development of the small businesses in this country. His is a story of immense effort and hardship, of achievement, of family sadness and joy along the way! David plans to update his book in the near future. Perhaps he will include his life at Wiggins Place within its pages.

Lights, Camera, Action! Starlet in the Making!

It only took the telling of her dream to be on the big screen to the D.R.E.A.M. (dare to reach every amazing moment) Team to put the cameras in motion for R.H. Myers Apartments resident Ruth Eisner, whose dream recently came true! Ruth wanted to be featured on TV or in a commercial, and thanks to our Dream Team, her dream came true! Ruth wrote her own script and starred in her own commercial for The R.H. Myers Apartments recently, and she did a great job! A little music from her favorite musical was added and the whole package just melded together naturally!

We were surprised when she began to read her own written script and that, unsolicited, she wrote about loving life at Myers! Ruth's dream role was recorded and posted on YouTube.com, for the entire world to see! Our newest bright shining star can be viewed by going to YouTube.com and putting Ruth Eisner at

R.H. Myers in the search box. Ruth also received her own disc of her movie debut. After filming, all her fans gathered around to help her celebrate. "I've gotten so much attention from my friends here at Myers over this big screen debut," Ruth told the team with a big smile, "I can't thank you enough, you have really made me a happy woman!"

Pierre's Parlor in the Park Rededicated

In 1992, in honor of Sol Roth's 75th birthday, his family and friends decided the perfect way to honor the president of Pierre's Ice Cream was by building an ice cream parlor at Menorah Park, where he had served as a board member and life trustee for so many years.

Pierre's Parlor in the Park opened in the summer of 1992 and has served as a gathering place for residents and their families ever since. This year, it was decided the parlor needed a little "facelift."

When Sol passed away in 2005, his family asked that contributions be sent to Menorah Park and they were used to dedicate the DriveWise program. Due to the generosity of so many people, especially Harriet Roth, Sol's wife, there were additional funds to renovate the ice cream parlor.

The new Parlor in the Park has updated wallpaper, a faux stained glass ceiling, new signage, cabinetry, equipment and historical pictures of Pierre's through the years. There's even a new menu!

On Sunday, February 27th, Pierre's was rededicated in honor of Sol Roth with free ice cream for everyone. A special thanks to the ever-generous Roth family. We're sure families will enjoy the ice cream parlor for many years to come.

Serving ice cream at the rededication are Teen Philanthropy & Leadership Board members Reid Singer, Jason Schreibman, Dani Berns and Dane Adelman.

Watching as Harriet Roth cuts the ribbon for the new Parlor in the Park are family members Shelley Roth, president of Pierre's Ice Cream, Allen, Sharon, Jaclyn and Austin Roth and Bruce Schwartz.

Teen Philanthropy and Leadership Board Makes Allocations

For its eleventh year, the Teen Philanthropy and Leadership Board learned about philanthropy, decision-making, Menorah Park and making allocations to programs and equipment on the campus. This year's board is made up of thirteen students from area high schools including Chagrin Falls, Orange, Shaker, Hawken, Laurel and University Schools.

Since its inception, the board has allocated $227,379 to 165 grants.

This year's funding for the board came from the Menorah Park Foundation, the Roz and Sam Krasney Teen Philanthropy Fund, the Gail and Elliott Schlang Philanthropic Fund, and the Naomi G. and Edwin Z. Singer Family Fund.

Funds for Media and Communication Systems Improve Life on Campus

Thanks to a gift from the Esther and Hyman Rapport Philanthropic Trust, residents throughout the campus will be able to receive 13 additional TV channels including Biography, Oprah Winfrey Network, Discovery Science, E!Entertainment, National Geographic and Fit TV.

Another portion of the funds enabled Wiggins Place to purchase a new sound system.

Music: On a Healing Note

By Volunteer Helene Weinberger

Egyptians played instruments in 4000 BCE! According to Katie Gardner, music therapist at Menorah Park, music as therapy began after World War II, when nurses discovered the huge benefits for hospitalized veterans when they played instruments.

Katie is trained and certified in the field, spreading pleasure and comfort to residents with musical performances, singing, drumming, whistling, and other musical means to celebrate sound with this enriching type of recreation. Music therapy, as used clinically by skilled professionals, is an intervention used to achieve specific goals and objectives. It’s a form of non-pharmacological pain management, offering social interaction and emotional intimacy with family and caregivers. Music therapy provides opportunities for positive changes in mood and behavior, a sense of control, increased awareness and reduction of anxiety and stress.

When referred for therapy, clients receive an individualized treatment plan that can include a variety of musical interventions. Clients can compose, sing, play, or otherwise respond as they wish. Sometimes a positive response may be the making of eye contact or the lifting of eyebrows as the individual recalls some song from the distant past which may produce a special memory. Katie begins her therapy with a short song, “Hello” using the name of a person. After six or more sessions, people sing along with all the words. One-half of Katie’s time is spent with long-term care residents, and the other half with hospice patients. One patient wrote poetry and put it to music. The CD of that creation will be a treasure to the family.

Just as some residents have begun to create art in their older years, some residents learn to play a musical instrument, whether guitar, keyboard, dulcimer or drums. One of the objectives, of course, is the joy of creativity, but the other is the actual learning. Music is the art that covers the greatest surface of the brain. When you think of it, a person who plays the piano is using hands, feet, hearing, sight, and emotional reaction. Each instrument demands a different type of learning and response, supporting maintenance and even improvement of cognitive function.

Katie says she loves working with our population and eliciting the kinds of responses that come forth, and she has discovered what she believes is her life’s work. Please play on, Katie, as new learning constantly occurs as the result of your efforts!

Deficiency-Free Surveys

Wiggins Place joins Menorah Park and Stone Gardens Assisted Living in receiving a perfect score in its annual unannounced inspection by the Ohio Department of Health.

Each year, State surveyors conduct surprise inspections of skilled nursing and assisted living communities in Ohio. The purpose of the survey is to ensure that the facility complies with hundreds of state regulations pertaining to all levels of operations in the past year. This includes specifics from environmental and documentation review, observation of care and services provided, interviews with residents, families, staff and more. Very few homes achieve the honor of being deficiency-free; all three of our award-winning residences have achieved these high standards of quality.

What truly sets Wiggins Place and our campus apart is that the employees aren’t only there to perform their jobs; they are a staff comprised of compassionate people, eager to make a difference. They are a staff that values human life.

These deficiency-free surveys are a tribute to our staff’s commitment and dedication to the people we serve. According to Wiggins Place Administrator Nancy Sutula, “Quality care and service begins and ends with quality people. It’s a privilege and honor to be a part of this team.”

Passover – Welcome to a Seat at the Table

Rabbi Ephraim Karp,
Director of Spiritual Living

In the telling of the Passover story, the Hagaddah presents us with four different children. Each has his own personality and his own approach to Passover and their relationship with G-d.

The wise child is well educated and embraces a relationship with G-d.

The wicked, rebellious, or stubborn child may be educated, but doesn't understand why the details are important and isn't really interested in a relationship with G-d. The simple child may or may not have some education, but approaches everything in a simple manner. Then there is the child who does not even know to ask. Perhaps he/she is just so oblivious to the whole idea of Passover and a relationship with G-d that he/she doesn't know that there is anything to ask.

These different approaches may belong to each one of us as well. We may at times reflect on our heritage and feel deeply committed to G-d and our holidays, and then there may be those days that we are just so overwhelmed with life that we really feel that our relationship with G-d is just inconvenient and irrelevant. Some days we might want to just sit back and enjoy our experiences without really giving much thought to the more profound moments of life, and at other times we might feel just so out of touch that we don't even know how to respond.

The Hagaddah addresses every type of individual at all times. Each one of us is part of G-d's people, and each part of us is engaged in a relationship with G-d. Sometimes we might feel that we don't belong, that it's not for us, we're not worthy or not the right kind of people, but the Hagaddah looks and sees each one of us around the room. With our various personalities, flaws, fluctuations and imperfections, we are the people sitting at the Seder. We are the people that G-d takes out of Egypt.

I could easily just put it back in our laps and say that the choice is ours, but that is not what Passover is really all about. The choice was G-d's! G-d wanted us and G-d took us out! Whoever we are or however we feel, all we really need to do is show up at the table and that is enough for G-d to reach out and embrace each of us with that famous outstretched arm!

Come join us and celebrate Passover with family and friends for seders, services or just a holiday visit.

Memories of a Lifetime From Menorah Park's Friedman Residents

April 27th is national "tell a story" day! The Friedman Pavilion is taking the imaginations of its residents to new heights with a program called "Stories Straight From My Heart." The program offers residents opportunities to reminisce about childhood memories and favorite events while sharing their stories with others. Their stories will be written down and compiled into a collection of short works and reproduced for each participant, providing a nice opportunity for them to share their stories with family and friends. To hear some of the creative discussions firsthand, come to the first program scheduled April 27th, 2011, at 3:00 p.m.

Celebrate Food on World Health Day!

Food can make a difference to your health! On April 7th, World Health Day, we should all make a promise to eat healthy foods such as those served on the Menorah Park campus.

Sliced carrot looks like the human eye. Carrots enhance function and blood flow to the eyes.

The tomato has four chambers and is red like the heart. Tomatoes are loaded with lycopine and are indeed pure heart and blood food!

Walnuts look like a little brain, have a left and right hemisphere, and upper cerebrums and lower cerebellums. Walnuts help develop more than three dozen neurotransmitters for brain function.

Kidney beans actually heal and help maintain kidney function and yes, they look exactly like the human kidneys!

April is also Foot Health and Occupational Therapy Month. Check with the Peter B. Lewis Aquatic & Therapy Center for your free healthy back, balance and mobility screenings. Call our therapist at (216) 595-7345 to make an appointment.

down then the buzzer went off. Tom from R.H. Myers took the trophy with his creative version that included sun dried tomatoes and gouda. The judges were Menorah Park's Merri Bunge from the education department, renowned Brazilian Chef Sergio Abramov, who owns two restaurants in the area, and Menorah Park Chef Richard Farkas. The judges were so impressed with each recipe, they carefully tasted, then re-tasted the dishes to choose the winner. See the recipe at the right.

The ABC'S of Life in the Clubs of the ADC

For an absolutely fun-filled day spent in the company of friends, sharing laughter, camaraderie, crafts, outings, and special projects that merit meaningful results, spend a day at the Mandel Adult Day Care Center on the Menorah Park Campus. It's a social gathering place where participants meet new people, have active, productive days and make lasting friendships in various well-defined clubs that are individually focused on the interests and abilities of its members.

Each day encompasses activities for all members, and you never know what surprises might be in store for this community. ADC staff members are always searching for ways to surprise its members and their caregivers, and find many ways to help members feel as special as they are. When staff heard that FOX 8 was looking for a loving, deserving person for their segment, "Pay It Forward," they immediately thought of Rufus Dudley, best friend and caregiver of Adult Day Center client Bill Vacarriello. The Staff shared the story of his caring nature, the special relationship he and Bill share, and even told Channel 8 Anchor Wayne Dawson of Rufus' car troubles.

FOX 8 paid the ADC a special visit with a handful of $50 bills, $400 in all, to give to Bill's caregiver, Rufus, rewarding him for his kindness and caring. Rufus was honored and taken by surprise, smiling as staff and onlookers applauded him as a member of the ADC extended family.
